Logistics services

Understanding companies and organizations focus on their own core business, the importance of outsourcing in non-core activities has been more outstanding in recent years and it has been the favorite trend in a wide variety of organizations. Considering the environment and nature of logistic activities which are mostly out of production site, are more outsourceable than other supply chain activities because they will be done faster, cheaper, and more efficient out of the parent organization.

This issue has led to the formation of third-party logistic companies around the world which have a market share of over a thousand billion dollars. Third-party logistic companies or in short 3PLs are the companies which producers or service organizations which a section or all of their logistic affairs have been delegated to them. The important point is that, despite the brilliant logistic location of Iran and widespread available logistic services, unfortunately, there have been no specialized capable logistic companies capable of handling all logistic chain services yet.

Meanwhile, one of the serious concerns of economic activists and goods owners (producers, traders, startups, and service providers) in the country is and has been the treatment and management of their needed logistic services like (shipment, inventory custom services, packaging, distribution, etc) imposing great expenses on the owners of the goods. Not to forget the great risk and high unreliability which these logistic services bring along for the owners of the goods. Unstructured bodies of logistics and widespread small and big-sized players, all together have been the main concern and have added to the insecurity of the logistic atmosphere of Iran.

Understanding the essence and harsh need of establishing a capable, well-structured logistic company in Iran and having the positive required experience in various logistic affairs and benefiting from a strong consulting team, and performing in and out of the country, Atlas Breeze group is determined to produce a complete, concentrated specialized logistic chain and is striving to be a pioneer by applying up to date world-class standards in finance, and structure and localize them to offer most modern up to date models to activists in logistics.
